DEAR NEXT LEVEL PARENTS,

What if basketball could open a door for your son to experience the world?

At Next Level Basketball Academy, we believe the game of basketball is about much more than wins, losses, and championships. It is about developing confidence, character, discipline, leadership, and creating opportunities that can shape a young man's future.

In March 2027, we are preparing to take six teams, representing up to 60 young athletes, to Spain to compete against some of Europe's top youth basketball talent. For many of these young men, this could be their first opportunity to travel internationally, experience another culture, and represent their families, communities, Texas, and the United States on a global stage.

As parents, you entrust us with something far more valuable than basketball development — your sons and their futures. We take that responsibility seriously.

Our vision is to make this extraordinary experience accessible to deserving young athletes, regardless of their family's financial circumstances. Through corporate sponsorships, community partnerships, and fundraising, our number-one goal is to minimize the financial burden on families — ideally eliminating it altogether.

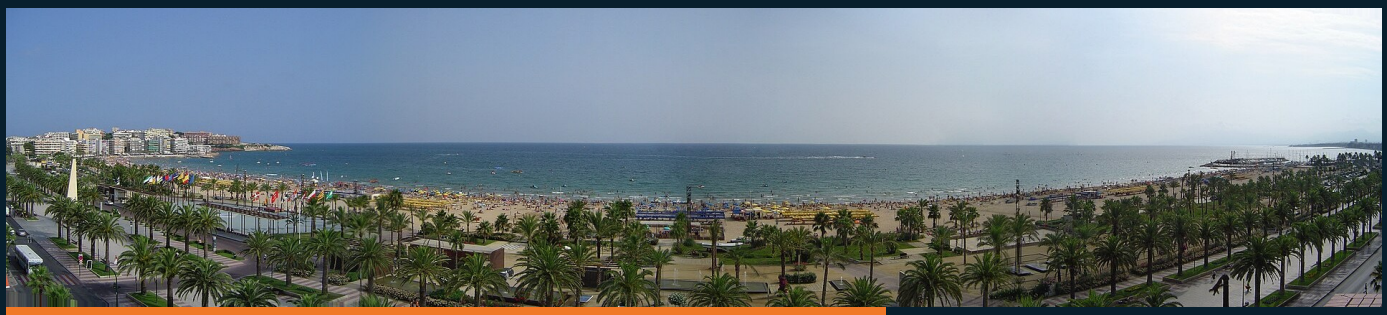

We invite you to explore what lies ahead, learn about the opportunity, and join us as we prepare these young men for an experience that could stay with them for a lifetime.

The challenge has been issued. Together, let's help our young men answer the call.

Warm regards,

Coach Mahdy El-Fil
